Dear Mr. Banerji, V.V. 10-23-29.

It is not clear from the orders of Government whether it is the Maharani's College or the Maharani's High School (or both) that is to be visited by the Countess of Reading. Evidently Government have instructed the Inspector-General of Education to arrange for a reception. The College would then be completely out of the reckoning. If the College or both the College and the School are to be visited, the University must be allowed to take an active part in the reception as usual on such occasions and as demanded by considerations of propriety.

I request that definite orders may be issued at once to avoid confusion.

ADDRESS.

May it please Your Excellency,

On behalf of the management, staff and students of the Maharani Women's College and Girls' High school, I beg leave to accord to Your Excellency a most hearty and respectful welcome. It has been a highly valued and well-established tradition of this pioneer institution bearing the illustrious name of Her Highness the Maharani C.I. Vanivilas Sannidhana, to be privileged to enjoy the unique honour of Vice-regal visits from the time of Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Dufferin and onwards for over quarter of a century. Your Excellency's gracious presence here to-day furnishes one more link in the long living chain of happy associations and memorable events which impel us to go forward in the path of progress. I most respectfully beg permission to express, however inadequately, our feelings of joy on this great occasion for so generously sparing for us a portion of Your Excellency's precious time, and kind thoughts, in the midst of the onerous and responsible duties that engross the attention of one in Your Excellency's exalted position. It is highly gratifying to the women of India that they hold no small place in YOUR Excellency's noble mind and esteem.

The women of Mysore, have every reason to consider themselves fortunate in having their lot cast in the enlightened environment of one of the model model states of India. The Maharani Women's College has been to them the visible symbol of past endeavour and future hope for their uplift. Thanks to the patronage of the Royal House of Mysore and the liberal policy of His Highness' benigh Government, the institution which had a small beginning as an aided girls' school in the early eighties of the last century, passed successfully through the intermediate stages of a High school and a second Grade college supported entirely by Government grants and has finally developed into the Maharani Women's College -- a constituent part of the Mysore University and the centre of Women's higher education and activities in the State. The College and the High school though housed in the same building have been for purposes of internal administration placed since 1919, under the control of the University and the Education Department. respectively.

One peculiar feature which deserves mention in connection with the expansion of Women's education is the special care taken to educate the Hindu widows in the institution known till very recently as the 'Abalashrama or Widows' Home' which forms an annexe to the High school. It has supplied the State schools with women teachers and provided the hospital staffs with nurses. It is, however, to be changed shortly into a vocational institution for women, which is one of our present-day needs.

Remembering that social reform is the one essential condition for the rapid advance of women's education in India and considering the initial difficulties overcome overcome so far, our progress in the field is far from discouraging. Popular prejudices against girls' education have worn off; Literacy has been rapidly increasing; our women are urging the restoration of their lost social position; there has been visible improvement, in the lot of ~~xxxxxxx xxxx~~ the unfortunate girl widows.. And our women in spite of adverse social restrictions have vindicated their capacity for the highest knowledge and culture. In a word we have been moving in consonance with the time-spirit. The example of our more fortunate sisters in the West and timely advice and encouragement from great personages like Your Excellency will be further incentives to greater exertion in the cause of Women's education and enlightenment.

In conclusion, we assure Your Excellency that the memory of your Gracious visit will ever remain green in our minds. And for the great honour thus conferred on the institutions, we tender our most heartfelt thanks to Your Excellency. It is (ever) our earnest prayer that the Almighty may bestow on Your Excellency, long life and prosperity.

Excellency
